TIPS FOR USE

MODEL FIRST

Before students use the templates on their own, take time to complete examples in front of or with your class. Not only does this give you the opportunity to teach students HOW to use the forms, but you'll also be able to set clear and high expectations for their work. Students must understand that the purpose of reading response is to think more deeply about the text, not just to complete a page.

OFFER CHOICES

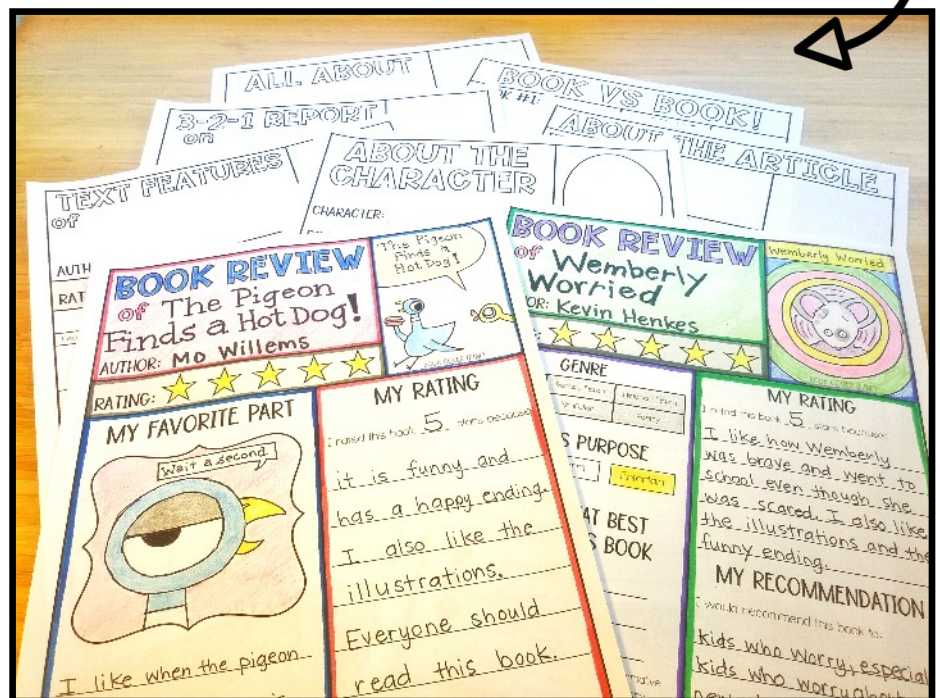

Empower and engage students by offering them a choice! I like to have 4 - 5 response options available to students so that they can select the type of response they'd like to do that day and also choose an option that fits best with the book they are currently reading.

MAKE TIME FOR SHARING

The power of Reading Response lies in sharing! You might include a whole group sharing time every Friday or allow students to meet and share with a partner.

Another option is to create a bulletin board where students can post their work and also get inspiration from other students' work!
