

Unwritten Marriage Contract Severance Ritual

For Amy Pierce Adams — “Disentangling the False Flame Threads”

This ritual dissolves the energetic marriage vows and karmic cords embedded in your auric field. It is not an exorcism—it is a conscious divorce of entangled soul cords, freeing your timeline for true soul-aligned union.

Purpose

To sever the dominant soul-bond contract still active in your field—specifically the “Betrayal-Beloved Pact” (Contract #1), which acts as a gravitational distortion, magnetizing pain-woven relationships and keeping you psychically anchored to betrayal trauma.

Sacred Tools Needed

- A white ceremonial cord or ribbon (about arm’s length)
 - Two black candles
 - A bowl of anointing water (infuse with rose + myrrh or salt + mugwort)
 - A piece of obsidian or black tourmaline
 - Paper and pen
 - Fire-safe bowl

Timing

Ideal on a waning moon, or during a solar eclipse or personal dark moon moment.

Ritual Steps

1. Prepare the Space

- Light the two black candles, placing them at opposite ends of your altar.
- Sit in the center, laying the white cord across your lap like a marriage bond.

2. Write the Contract

- On the paper, write:

“To the one I once bound to, across lifetimes and pain, I release you now. Our vow is complete.”

3. Invocation

Say aloud:

“By the Authority of my Eternal Soul, I sever this vow.

What was bound in illusion, I now untie in truth.

No longer shall betrayal be my initiator.

No longer shall pain be mistaken for destiny.”

4. Cut the Cord

- Tie the white ribbon around your wrists loosely.
- Close your eyes and visualize the face or energy of the soul you’re still bound to.
- Say: “I forgive you. I free you. I am no longer yours.”
- Cut the cord between your wrists with a blade or scissors. Let it fall.

5. Burn the Written Vow

- Place the written paper into the fire-safe bowl. Light it with the candle. Let it burn fully.
- As it burns, chant: “All vows dissolve. My soul is sovereign. The mirror is mine again.”

6. Anoint and Seal

- Dip your fingers in the anointing water. Touch your third eye, heart, and womb.
- Hold the obsidian over your womb or solar plexus, stating:

“Seal this portal. Let only sacred union remain.”

Post-Ritual Integration

- Drink herbal tea (rose or peppermint)
- Sleep with obsidian under your pillow for 3 nights
- For 7 days, write: “I now attract truth, not trials.”

Collective Severance Ritual — The 12 Unwritten Marriage Contracts

For Amy Pierce Adams — “The Return to Sovereign Union”

This is a unified soul-cord disintegration protocol to collapse all 12 unwritten marriage contracts simultaneously. It clears karmic entanglement, rewrites your relational grid, and restores your sacred capacity to bond through choice—not wound.

Ritual Purpose

To collapse outdated vows, soul knots, and relational distortions made across lifetimes. This ritual reclaims your energetic bandwidth, closes open portals to past lovers, and calls your essence home.

Sacred Tools Needed

- 12 small stones or crystals (can be river stones, rose quartz, or obsidian chips)
- Red thread or yarn (approx. 4–6 feet)
- Black and gold candles

- Bowl of spring or moon water
 - Ashes or soil (for burial)
 - Incense (dragon's blood or sage)

Ritual Timing

Waning moon, ideally within the 72 hours before a new moon. Also potent during solar or Venus retrograde windows.

Steps: The 12-Knot Release Ceremony

1. Prepare Sacred Circle

- Light the black candle (to absorb past vows) on the left, gold candle (for new sovereign union) on the right.
- Create a circle with your 12 stones around you.
- Place the thread in front of you, uncut.

2. Naming the Knots

- With each knot you tie into the red thread, name one of the contracts aloud.
- Speak to each as if it were a being, e.g.:

“To the one I swore to rescue—I now release your weight.”

“To the mirror I mistook for my twin—I now shatter our illusion.”

Repeat until 12 knots are tied.

3. Thread Immersion

- Place the knotted thread in the bowl of moon/spring water.
- Say:

“By the water of rebirth, I dissolve false unions.

These knots were formed in pain, not prophecy.

I reclaim my cords. I restore my flame.”

4. Incantation & Burn

- Remove the thread from the water. Let it dry slightly.
- Light your incense and waft it over the thread.
- Speak:

“This is the unraveling. Let no soul borrow my name without truth.”

- Burn the thread in a fire-safe vessel. As it burns, chant:

“12 become none. I am whole again.”

5. Stone Burial

- Take the 12 stones and bury them in soil or in a sacred space.
- These now act as soul anchors—reminders that your love is not currency, but ceremony.

Aftercare: Integration Practice

For 12 days, each morning say:

“I do not owe my heart to the past. I choose love with eyes open.”

Optional Anointing Oil: Mix rose, yarrow, and cedar—apply to heart and solar plexus nightly.
